Ella Willis was close up and ran into Sunderland, throwing him to the track. Lashbury, driver of Elia Willis was also thrown heavily. Coiner came up and ran into Donnybrook, which was trying to get out of the mixup, throwing Sherman, Coiner's driver. Donnybrook also went down, throwing Martin, his driver. All the horses then scrambled to their feet and boiled around the track.

As near as can be learned, Coiner stepped on Lashbury's leg, breaking his ankle off short. Sunderland was struck about the head, but not seriously injured. Ella Willis' sulky was smashed to pieces, but before damage could be caused all the horses were recaptured. The horses in the mixup were placed owing to an unavoidable accident.

FURTHER DECLINE IN PRICES. Unusual Excitement and Activity at

New York, Aug. 19.—Prices in the stock market declined further today on selling for both accounts. Unusual activity and excitement prevailed at the opening, when transactions were most heavy and strongly suggestive of expectal liquidation. Supporting orders most heavy and strongly suggestive of general liquidation. Supporting orders helped to steady the list, and after the first hour the market grew more quiet and orderly. As on the previous day, report, rumor and conjecture dealt largely with the physical condition of Mr. Harriman and the possible effect of his reported lil health upon the much discussed plans of the Harriman roads. Continuance of the severe drought in the corn belt was offset by the ideal weather prevailing in the spring wheat territory. Amusement rather than alarm was found in the pessimistic utterances of a New Engrather than alarm was found in the pessimistic utterances of a New England operator whose fiambuoyant advertisements in the local newspapers were replete with all manner of dire forebodings as to the immediate future of the country. London gave this market little encouragement, as international stocks were all lower there, and later that center disposed of some 30,000 shares here, principally Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and United States Steel. Initial transactions in the local market sufficed to give more than a hint of what was to follow. Union Pacific, New York Central, Illinois Central and Chicago and Northdian Pacific, New York Central, Illinois Central and Chicago and Northwestern all fell a point or more with very substantial losses in numerous other issues. Atchison was one of the few active stocks to resist the selling pressure. Before the expiration of the first hour, in which almost 500,000 shares changed hands, Union Pacific was off three points and Reading two.
By midday there was some recovery. was off three points and Reading two. By midday there was some recovery, but business fell off to a marked degree and the undertone continued feverish and confusing. The final hour brought further recovery with especial gains in the local tractions, Missouri Pacific and Central Leather. The rise in the latter stock was concurrent with an announcement that a plan had been evolved to overcome the opposition to its merger with the current with an announcement that a plan had been evolved to overcome the opposition to its merger with the United States Leather company. The Harriman group made little headway upward and in the final half hour a vigorous onslaught directed chiefly against Union Pacific, Reading and New York Central sent prices to a fresh level. Stocks poured out in enormous volume and the decline proceeded with little interruption. Absolutely no news was heard to account for the movement, which was the most sensational of its kind in several weeks, but the consensus of board room gossip was that the raid had its origin in a very aggressive bear faction which chose this particular occasion as the psychological moment. At the lowest prices of the day Union Pacific, Reading and New York Central recorded maximum losses of over five points each and but very little recovery was shown. The balance of the covery was shown. The balance of the degree and the close was not withou its moments of semi-demoralization.
Over 300,000 shares were traded in during the last half hour, and of that amount over two-thirds came amount over two-thirds came out in the final twenty minutes. The day's total was well above 1,000,000 shares. The bond market was easy. Total sales, par value, $5,000,000. Government bonds were unchanged.
